NEARING COMPLETION. The Bancroft school is rapidly nearing completion and, according to officials, should be ready for occupancy following the February school vacation. This is a view of the school looking in a southerly direction. A kindergarten area is in the front part of the building. Looking at the roof, it can be seen that work still remains in the sealing of various areas.

We Owe $35,000 For 1968

The school department's 1968 expense budget is deficient by about $35,000 in unpaid bills from last year, the school committee announced Monday night.

A subcommittee of the schoolmen, who must ask town meeting to include this amount in their 1969 budget, will evaluate and revise the accounting methods of the school department responsible for these errors.

The deficiency was discovered by the town accountant who informed Supervisor of General Services Jack Berberian on Jan. 19.

Berberian, who is responsible for the school department's expense budget, said the deficiency was due to human error and also partly to the limitations of the school's bookkeeping machine which he said showed more money left in the expense budget than really was there.

Berberian told the TOWNSMAN the deficiency was due to a combination of overspending in the budget items of school supplies, equipment and textbooks, plus omissions and mistakes in posting other expenditures, in transportation and insurance. He explained that the secretary using the bookkeeping machine was fairly new, and inexperienced in municipal accounting.

As a result, the expense budget emptied before the normal arrival of about 50 end-of-the-year bills totalling $34,850.53, which cannot be paid until town meeting acts.

Chairman Dr. Richard A. Katz's statement pointed out that although the School Department's total 1968 budget shows a surplus (due to a salary budget surplus of about $44,000), none of this can be used to cover the deficiency in the expense budget. The salary and expense budgets of the school department, each voted on separately by town meeting, must each separately return their surplus to the town to reduce the next year's tax rate.

Superintendent Edward I. Erickson said the school department took full responsibility for the "errors of omission and commission" and said it was most embarrassing. "If never should have happened, but it happened, and there you are."

Committeemen Fred Fitzgerald and William King are the subcommittee appointed by Katz to work with Erickson and Berberian to evaluate and revise the school department's method of handling finances and expenditures, especially with regard to effective control by the supervisor of general services.

The bookkeeping machine in question evidently is incapable of financial hairsplitting necessary to partially encumber, or to encumber an expenditure to more than one account.

This is the machine which the town, by school department request, continued to rent last year for $2,000 after the town accounting machine took over the school accounts.

Nine Seeking Four Offices In Election

There will be three contests in the annual town election in March, according to the nomination papers filed with Town Clerk Irving O. Piper Monday afternoon.

Two will vie for the moderator post, two for the single seat on the board of selectmen and four seek a three year term on the school committee.

Thomas R. Wallace is unopposed in his quest for re-election to a five year term on the Andover Housing Authority.

For school committee, where a vacancy exists due to Frederick Fitzgerald not seeking re-election the four candidates are Daniel Frishman, Atty. Irving Newman, Winthrop Newman and Leo Griffin. The Newmans are not related.

Selectman Sidney P. White is seeking re-election to another three year term and is being challenged by Wolfgang Berthold.

For moderator, Atty. Arthur Williams, who has served in that post since 1965, is seeking re-election. Contesting him is Dr. Richard S. Cotton.

The election will be held Monday, March 3 with the polls open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The Bancroft School Has A Soaked Carpet

Water damage to carpeting in the Bancroft school, amounting to several thousand dollars, will be replaced at no expense to the town, according to Town Manager Richard J. Bowen.

The damage which was caused by rain last week and a problem with an outside vent, is the responsibility of the general contractor, the manager said.

He also said that the damage would have no effect on the planned opening date of the school - following the mid-winter February vacation.

The damage is in a room near the entrance to the school. The moat which surrounds the school contains vents and drains to carry off surface water. Apparently the contractor or landscaper, did not properly vent the particular area, or a drain was plugged, thus causing the water to enter the building and soak the carpeting already installed.

The padding under the carpet will have to be completely removed and replaced. It is possible that the actual carpeting may be salvaged.

In any case the loss, at this point is not going to be the responsibility of the town, Bowen said the general contractor is entirely responsible and would have to make any replacements necessary.

Leakage from roof areas has also been seen, but is due largely to the building not as yet being tightened up. Roofers have not completed work in some areas and these problems are expected to be corrected prior to the school opening.

In one section water was seeping in quite heavily on Friday, the day of the heavy rainfall, but this was due to the peak of the roof not having been sealed as yet.

There was no carpeting installed in this area as yet and workmen were still finishing the interior walls and wooded studded ceiling.

The walls, which are composed principally of cement block, still must be washed down from the dampness and will be cleaned prior to the opening.

A silicone type material is being used to prevent rain and dampness from penetrating the building. An initial coat has been applied in some areas, but a second coat will be required.

Officials still feel that the school will be open to pupils after the February vacation. Carpeting is being placed throughout the school and a number of workmen are putting finishing touches on various areas of the school.

Complete landscaping work will have to wait until spring or when the weather improves for such work to be done.

Andover YMCA

The board of directors of the Andover Y.M.C.A. and the Greater Lawrence Y.M.C.A. voted last week to include residents of North Andover as constituents when the proposed new Y.M.C.A. facility is built.

The important decision was announced by President Fred H. Harrison of the Andover Y.M.C.A. and President Robert A. Watters of the Lawrence Y.M.C.A. and follows much discussion over the past several months. An early decision regarding the area to be served by the new Y.M.C.A. building was deemed necessary since it relates to the site selection, size of the facility, and planning for the building fund campaign.

The decision marked another step forward in the developing plans for a new family type Andover Y.M.C.A.

A Facilities Determination Committee is presently making visitations to Y.M.C.A.'s in the New England Area seeking out types of pools, gyms and other program facilities which have proved to be most functional.

The decision also will reflect

Secondary Education Has Some Dynamic Changes

(A TOWNSMAN News Feature)

High School Principal Philip Wormwood took time out during midyear exam week to chart some of the dynamic changes in secondary education and explain some innovations beginning at Andover High.

Regimented patterns that keep students in self-contained classroom groups are on their way out, says Wormwood. They are being replaced by varied and flexible patterns, programs are adapted to fit each individual student.

Why? Because there is greater variety among students, for one thing. Part of this is due to family mobility, a lot of it is because of today the schools retain and educate everyone, and serve broad variety of interests.

The demands of society today are of such variety, Wormwood reminded us, that educational programs must adapt to contain greater variety of courses, and reflect greater recognition of student differences.

The same concepts that are bringing in non-graded classes and team teaching to lower grades also affect secondary education. Here, the principal told us, the emphasis is on independent work and individual study situations, with important results:

Wormwood's prediction: major future developments in high school programs will depend largely on student attitude and acceptance of student responsibility.

Honor Study Program

In illustration, the Andover principal unveiled an Honor Study Program, developed by the high school's Faculty-Student Committee, which has been planning together since early fall.

Within the next week or ten days, all high school seniors will receive an Honor Study Pass, which will give them the privilege of deciding for themselves where and how to best spend their study time between classes.

Seniors may go to one of several unsupervised study halls, where small groups may quietly work together or on their own. They may spend their free periods in the student lounge, in the library, with a previously obtained pass, or in conference with a teacher.

If a student has checked out his plan a day in advance, he may spend his free periods working in the science lab, the math or language labs, or the industrial arts rooms.

Architect Says Bancroft As Safe As Any Other School

When William Warner, Providence architect of the Bancroft school, spoke at the Bancroft PTA meeting at South School last Wednesday, he answered some questions by parents which may have been on other Andover minds as well:

*On safety - There are wood beams and rafters in the building. Is Bancroft more vulnerable to fire than conventional schools?

Mr. Warner's answer: that the building is of mill-type construction, a type approved by the safety code of the Commonwealth. He pointed out that the wood used exceeds state standards of thickness, which makes it very hard to ignite; he used the analogy of the difficulty of lighting a log with a match compared to the ease of lighting a thinner piece of wood. Warner stated that the steel beam holding the roof up over the head of the audience at that moment, would collapse and fall on them, if the building were on fire, long before a wood beam of the same size.

*On noise and the cost of heating, in an open-plan school - The architect pointed out that the building is actually of mixed design, with lots of open space, but many secluded and closed spaces, such as the corner music, shop art and science rooms, the "living room," and the two small closed studies adjoining each of the grade level areas.

As for costs, he cited a Boston newspaper article which compared the construction cost of Bancroft with that of the average school built in Massachusetts, and found they were the same. Yet, said Warner, Bancroft has more space for the money than the average school in the Commonwealth, and has air conditioning and carpeting throughout. The carpeting provides acoustical insulation which PTA president Hermann Rochwarg corroborated as excellent.

As for heating costs, the architect told PTA members that the oil fired heating system was chosen for economy as well as effectiveness. He recalled that on a night in December as cold as ten degrees below zero, the heat had to be shut off between 4 a.m. and 8 a.m. The workmen coming in at 8 a.m., said Warner, were surprised to find that the temperature in the building ranged from a low of 64 in the furthest corners, to 70 degrees. He explained that the Bancroft floor was one-inch insulation over a four-inch wood deck, which is an unusually effective means of floor insulation. Warner said he did not think that the town would find Bancroft an expensive building to heat.

The architect showed slides of the school, explaining the design and the philosophy behind it to a responsive full house.

Warner showed how the mechanical functions of the building are not hidden from view, but deliberately exposed as part of the total design. He hopes that part of the learning experience of children at Bancroft will be to observe and understand how a building is put together and how it works. He praised the pride and care many of the workers took in handsomely constructing and finishing exposed structural and mechanical parts of the building which conventional construction hides behind ceilings and false walls.

Warner, who is the father of four school-age children, said he hoped for an opportunity to meet his "ultimate clients," the children who will go to the school. He would like the chance to ask them for some art work to complete the design, particularly in the library.

The architect ended with his own educational credo that "the more a school respects the integrity of children, by involving them to their ability and capacity and responsibility, the more they respond."

You never realize how many folks are coasting down hill until you try to get help going the other way.

Atty. Irving L. Newman

Announces Candidacy

Irving L. Newman, 133 Lovejoy Road, a practicing attorney with offices in Lawrence, has announced that he will seek election to the Andover school committee.

Newman was educated at M.I.T. and Boston College Law School. Prior to entering the practice of law, he was a development engineer and subsequently became a consultant to management, concerned with the managerial problems of private business.

Many of his clients, who call upon his services for contract negotiations and fiscal matters, are in the fields of industry and construction.

Atty. Newman has had an interest in education for many years, and consequently, this interest has led him to make surveys of academic programs and facilities in top-rated public schools systems and their instructional and curriculum programs.

He has recently introduced at Andover high school a new approach to teaching social studies and addressed the seniors at Andover high school on the subject "The Right to Dissent."

He served on the 1965 Andover Educational Conference and was responsible for the material relating to innovations and new concepts.

The attorney is married to the former Harriet Wolfson of Brookline and has two children, a son, Marc, who is a senior at Carnegie Institute of Technology, and a daughter, Carol, who is a senior at Andover high school. When Marc attended Andover high school, he achieved the great distinction of being awarded first prize at the M.I.T. State Fair in both his junior and senior years.

The attorney seeks the position because he believes that his experience and management know-how will be of immediate value to overcome:

The Failure to utilize business-like methods in the consideration and approval of the budget and establish close control over expenditures.

The Failure to build inexpensive school buildings to the detriment of the children and community.

The Failure to spend a significant time and effort on the curriculum and techniques, the most important area within the scope of the committee, and

The Failure to determine if the fundamental objectives of our educational purposes are being achieved.

In the long run it is better to be a friend of the good fellow than be the good fellow himself.

Schools Could Be Updated

Architect Frank Crimp reported to the school committee Tuesday that it was feasible to update and expand Central, as well as South and Sanborn Schools, to be "three good schools, of 30 classrooms each," with modern instructional material centers, with adequate cafeteria, indoor and outdoors play space.

South and Sanborn would have two groups of six classrooms each, centered around an instructional materials center (library, Audio-visual, etc.), while Central would have a two story plan, with fifth and sixth grades up a new stairway from such a learning center. Central School would also acquire an adequate cafeteria and kitchen, Crimp said, properly placed away from the classroom area. The feasibility study avocated razing "leaky" Stowe, as Crimp termed the elderly building presently housing fifth and sixth graders.

Committeemen concluded that the costs, about the same per square foot as at West Addition, would mean that the town would get the pupil equivalent of two conventional schools at less than the cost of building new.

Crimp's feasibility study estimated the total costs, including building, site, planning, insurance, commission costs, and 5% contingency fund, and the building's equipment, at $1,390,000 for Central, $1,120,000 for Sanborn and $1,275,000 for South School.

The school committee began talking toward a planning grant for overcrowded Central School,

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN, JANUARY 30, 1969

agreeing with Committeeman William King that the construction should be begun as soon as possible to take advantage of the interval when the completed West School addition will have classroom spaces to replace those temporarily lost when Stowe School is razed. The committee seemed agreed that Stowe Must Go.

Committee discussion centered around the questions of whether the South and Sanborn plans offered enough teaching stations for physical education, combining as they do a cafeteria and auditorium or a gym and auditorium.

Crimp said that additional gym space could be added to the plans easily. Crimp's Central School plan already affords the three teaching stations the committee feels is desirable.

Question also arose on whether the Central site is large enough.
Crimp said that by razing Stowe, extra outdoor play space would be added. While he said that the Central site is not as large as that advocated by the School Building Assistance Commission, he felt exception would be made.

Resignations Are Recorded

The School Committee has granted a sabbatical leave of absence to a junior high school teacher and extended a leave of absence for sickness.

Miss Janet Conte, West Junior High French teacher, will take a leave of absence from Jan. 31 to the end of the year for study abroad. She will be replaced by Mrs. Norman Weber, Arundel Road, for the remainder of the year. Mrs. Weber, who has been hired at the rate of $8,800, has a Bachelor's degree from the University of Delaware, and a master's degree from Middlebury, including 24 credits at the Sorbonne, in Paris, on a Full-bright Fellowship. She has also studied at Tufts, and has experience teaching in Newark, Del., East Junior High and Methuen.

Mrs. Alice L. Carleton was granted an extension of her leave of absence for ill health. Accepted with regret were the resignations of Mrs. Mary M. Guziejka, Sanborn music teacher, as of Feb. 14, for health reasons and Mrs. Paulette LaPadula, at the end of the current school year, due to her marriage.

The Thaw Uncovers Litter

By Mrs. Barbara M. Bro

Of The Tidy Town Committee

All covered with snow in winter, Andover seems a pretty clean place.

Look at it after the January thaw however, shows something else. Shiny cans come winking out along the road. Newspapers, once held down by ice, flap loose. Several months' worth of cigarette butts emerge on the sidewalks. Parking lots and roadways are decorated by food cups, and the general effect is shoddy.

The town parks receive a good share of the littering. Leslie Farrow, Andover's recreation director calculates that recreation employees spend about one day out of seven in muckraking. The money saved if we used the cans provided, would reoutfit all of the playgrounds.

Wolf Berthold, speaking for the Andover Village Improvement Society, is able to add a more cheery note. A.V.I.S. properties are used frequently by walkers and scouting groups. He has seen a definite reduction in the amount of refuse found on the trails in the last few years. Scouts, he notes, are not only neat themselves, but they pick up after the less orderly. Undoubtedly, there are others who help. In fact some walkers regularly take along a paper bag for storing the offensive papers found along the way.

Last spring, high school boys took vacation jobs for one week, picking up trash on the streets. At the end of that time the town looked much better. However, in another week, key areas were almost as bad as they had been before. Town Manager Richard J. Bowen estimates that it would take between twenty and twenty-five thousand dollars to keep the town picked up all year 'round.

This spring there will probably be another clean-up, paint-up week with trash removal again offered by the town. This helps, but it is really not enough. Citizens might consider what else could be done, as they pick their way along the sidewalk from one orange Reese's candy wrapper to another. Suggestions mailed to the "Tidy Town Committee" at the town hall will be welcomed.

Andover Men Head Newly Merged Bank

Two Andover men who have headed Lawrence banks, will join forces this week when the Atlantic Cooperative and Lawrence Cooperative banks merge.

William E. Moriarty, 8 Locke St., president of the Atlantic Cooperative will serve as president and executive officer of the new institution to be merged with the Lawrence Cooperative.

Philip F. Danforth, Washington Park Drive, will serve as vice president.

The consolidation will give the new institution combined assets of $21,700,000.

Other officers of the bank include:

Edward V. Reed, vice president; Lawrence Anderson, treasurer; Mrs. Vera C. Pedrick and Miss Agnes McIntosh, assistant treasurers and Kenneth A. Ryder, clerk.

The directors will include those of both banks: T. Edwin Andrew Jr., Edward B. Bruce, Danforth, Russell G. Doyle, Douglas N. Howe, Ryder, Walter C. Wilson Jr., Postmaster Daniel F. Cahill, Frederick G. Caspar, Charles F. Dewhirst, Weston D. Eastman, Joseph V. Ippolito, Moriarty, Atty. John C. Reardon, Reed and Joseph A. Torrisi.

Moriarty, a former bank examiner, came to the Atlantic bank as treasurer. He was elected vice president and treasurer the following year and in 1962 was named president and treasurer.

He is a graduate of Boston College and is active in many civic organizations.

Danforth has been active in local banking circles since 1922. He was executive vice president and treasurer at the Essex Savings Bank before retirement.

If the plan is seniors, the Faculty committee plans to include the junior classes.

Wormwood sees student response. He points out that where there is little or no adult supervision as in the cafeteria where early-bussing in school corridors conduct themselves.

"People who are enough to trust a license, or to trust of someone else's are mature enough own decisions about their study time be."

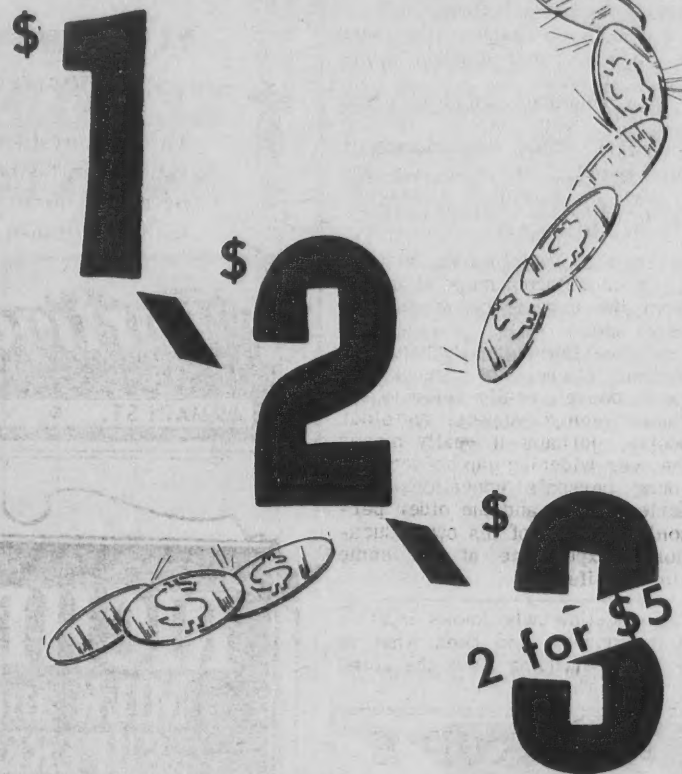

Shifting more responsibility to the student for his behavior makes sense, wood. He feels the preparation for choice which students when they go on to higher education most of them do on is still too great between high school stage in this regional evolution. "The every student who of his own volition this happens, the b."

But, Wormwood gimentation disappears schools, and are accorded the comes mandatory student accept more for his own and students' attitude. Other old concepts questioned, too. On the concept of the each student, says can't really avoid adapting the individual teachers, courses.

sibility on the students involved to conduct themselves appropriately for a study situation, without being bound to a particular desk in a particular faculty-policed study hall," Wormwood explained.

The key to the program lies in students' accepting the challenge of responsibility for their own behavior, and for wise use of their study time.

A group of about 75 Student Leaders will share responsibility for control of the program - by taking charge of the student lounge in the cafeteria, and perhaps some corridor duty, but all students with honor passes are expected to encourage fellow students to abide by school rules and to discourage any abuse of the honor privilege. An honor study pass is revocable, and control will be shared by a group of faculty and Student Leaders.

If the plan is successful with seniors, the Faculty-Student Committee plans to expand it later to include the junior and sophomore classes.

Wormwood seems confident of student response to the challenge. He points out that in those areas where there traditionally has been little or no adult supervision, such as in the cafeteria before school, where early-bussers gather, and in school corridors, young people conduct themselves responsibly.

"People who are considered old enough to trust with a driver's license, or to trust with the care of someone else's children surely are mature enough to make their own decisions about the best use of their study time between classes."

Shifting more responsibility onto the student for his own learning and behavior makes sense to Wormwood. He feels this is the best preparation for the freedom of choice which students will meet when they go on to some form of higher education or training, as most of them do or to work. There is still too great a gap, he says between high school and the next stage in this regard; it should be evolution. "The time comes for every student when he must study of his own volition. The sooner this happens, the better."

But, Wormwood warned, as regimentation disappears in secondary schools, and more privileges are accorded the students, it becomes mandatory that every student accept more responsibility for his own and for his fellow students' attitude and behavior.

Other old concepts are being questioned, too. Once you accept the concept of the individuality of each student, says Wormwood, you can't really avoid the concept of adapting the program for individual teachers, and individual courses.

The old time divisions are coming under scrutiny. The honor study plan should eventually free teachers from studyhall police duty and provide more time to work with individual students and for variety and flexibility in the presentation of their subjects.

Wormwood feels that not only students, but teachers, need a larger sphere of decision-making about learning situations.

Questions are being asked of teachers now: What would be the very best time-arrangement of your class? Do you want all equal chunks of time, or could you do a better job if you sometimes had a larger chunk of time, and sometimes smaller ones? What's the best way to present this subject? The way its being done now, or some other way?

Why should all classes last exactly 40 minutes? Modular scheduling is now in use in some high schools, and Andover High teachers will have a chance to hear about it on Feb. 5 when the principal of the Timberlane School, an experimental school in Plaistow, N. H. will address their in-service program.

The Faculty-Student Committee at Andover High School has been holding discussions since the beginning of the year, to consider programs to get away from some of the more rigid educational patterns. They started from a basis of mutual consent, and give-and-take, with faculty and student ideas entering the discussion on an equal basis.

What Philip Wormwood is trying to do is to change from a completely administration-dominated school to one where there is more sharing of ideas and working together, de-emphasizing differences between students and adults in the school and stressing community of ideas.

The principal confessed great sympathy with parents viewing education today. "As change in our society continues and increases," he said, "it becomes more and more difficult to relate familiarly to the educational experience of our children, because it is more and more different from the experience we had 30 years ago."

A possible insight: Perhaps that popular cliché, the "generation gap," doesn't really refer to the gap between young people and older people, perhaps it really means the ever-widening gap between the young person's educational experience now and the older person's memory of his own educational experience at the same stage of life.

The fellow who knows what is best knowing and does what is best worth doing finds the going the easiest.

on the site determination for a new building and also on the plans for a fund drive for construction of new facilities.

What the present vote does, is permit the North Andover Community Center to make a decision later this year as to whether they choose to become a part of the joint venture.

Andover made the decision two years ago to join the Y organization.

Salmonella

Recently, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington State (where the famed Columbia River Salmon come from) introduced a bill to change the name of the bacteria that cause food poisoning from Salmonella to Sanella. No doubt, the bill was proposed in response to pleas from those in the salmon industry who fear that the public thinks the bacteria were named after the fish.

Actually, the bacteria were named after a U.S. pathologist, Daniel Elmer Salmon, who discovered that dead virus induces immunity against living virus.

On The Trails
Ski Lessons Via TV

By Ted Sutton

Madonna Mountain Ski School is looking for a TV Star. They now have a new teaching aid, a completely portable TV system. This enables the instructor to videotape their pupils any where on the mountain. As the tape is played back, pupil and instructor see just what went wrong and make proper habits of performance automatic and smooth.

Was up in the high country last Friday, and shopped around for some "good to excellent" skiing. In spite of the rains, we found Mt. Whittier able to fill the bill. By the way this is a spot, you can really have food and shelter and find prices are not "Ski High." Director of the ski school, Willie Kalinuk and his pretty wife Linda are both fine instructors. When the rain really took over in the afternoon, we repaired to the "Lyons Den," a warm fire and the great company of owner Chuck Flanders. Altogether a good time was had by all.

By the way, if you happen to see a man parachute on to your favorite mountain up north, don't panic, he will be a "Green Beret." True with rucksack and rifle he will look more formidable than the skiers you are most used to. This group is in a three phase tactical training course. They start training at Fort Devens under Sgt. Major Ralph Liden in the final phase of this training the patrol size unit, infiltrate by parachute. They will then call on the skills learned for survival in a cold cruel winter wonderland.

When you hear that skiers are a hungry lot you better believe it. Some of these statistics over the holidays, support the fact that they sure consume their share of hamburgers, hot chocolate and franks. One area alone served about 35,000 hamburgers and over 75,000 hot drinks not to mention all the other snacks consumed.

One area alone served 3,160 pounds of French fries and will go through six and one-half tons of them this season.

Another area reported serving 1,000 hot dogs a day or about one mile of hot dogs every 14 days.

Two apres-ski spots report the consumption of a total of 56 barrels of beer.

Ted's Tips

For sharper snowplow turns and less chance of losing control, transfer your weight over to one ski by breaking at the hip, so that the upper body is angled over the turning ski. The shoulder over the turning ski is back slightly, bend the knees down to the skis (not inward), push out with the heel to hold a good snowplow. If you are back on your heels after each turn, check your poles, they may be too long.

Pre-School Work Party Scheduled

The parents of students attending the morning and afternoon sessions of the Free Church Coop Pre-School will have their annual work party under the direction of Frank Travis and his assistants Dennis Klockow, Tom Simmonds, and Dave White.

Starting at 6:30 p.m. with a covered supper, the morning session parents will meet on Feb. 4, and the afternoon session parents will meet on Feb. 19, 1969. Parents are urged to wear old clothes as some of the jobs to be accomplished include sanding, buffing, painting, and varnishing furniture and blocks; covering walls with formica; repairing broken toys; and extending screens.

It may be true that haste makes waste, but some people find it out only through costly experience.

The Deficit

That a municipal department as large as the school system should suddenly find themselves $35,000 short at the end of the year strikes as being somewhat appalling.

This is what was discovered this week and described as purely human error.

We go along with the theory that to err is human, but to the tune of $35,000 in the town's largest financial obligation, is shameful.

We question where the administrative capabilities were in allowing such a happening.

We wonder what the school committee is doing when they examine the weekly, or monthly warrants.

The particular department, which represents close to 50 per cent of the taxpayer's annual financial obligation to municipal operations, should most assuredly watch its dollars and cents more carefully.

The town auditor, thankfully, was more alert, and noticed the credits chalked up to the school department operations.

It does not help matters when a community is facing spiralling costs, and particularly in the area of education, to find a $35,000 error.

It does not set well with the taxpayer who looks forlornly at the prospective 1969 tax rate, to realize he is $35,000 in the hole from last year.

Regardless of new help, unsophisticated accounting machines, someone, somewhere, should have seen that the expenses of 1968 were creeping into 1969.

We face a monumental task of trying to curb expenses in the year ahead. We feel particularly chagrined that we now face payment of last year's bills.

In the particular area, there is duplication of effort. The school department is spending $2,000 to process bills and payrolls — a matter which could well be handled by the central auditing department in town hall.

Proof enough is the fact that we are now $35,000 behind going into 1969, due to a $2,000 rented machine and some errors of omission and commission which never should have been allowed to happen.

Let us set our course anew. Let us have a school committee attentive to its $5,000,000 budget. Let us have an administration which will keep a watchful eye on that budget. Last, but not least, let us all be more attentive to these money matters.

Looking toward 1969, none of us can afford to kick in for 1968.

The Consultant

Once again, we comment on the requirement of retaining a consultant to do the work of a local board or committee.

We refer to the school committee voting to retain the services of a Harvard University professor to look into and recommend a candidate for superintendent of schools, to replace Edward I. Erickson who will retire in August.

We do not quarrel with the funds made available, since the cost is minimal.

The thought is — — — why hire consultants?

What is wrong with the elected or appointed bodies getting down to the work of doing what they are supposed to do.

The answer, of course, comes back, we want the best for Andover, and this is the manner in which we can best serve the needs of the community.

Frankly, most towns and cities, if you come right down to it, hire consultants to tell them exactly what they want, but since it came from a hired source, it takes them off the hook.

The minimal cost in the retaining of a consultant is nothing in comparison to the overall budget.

But the fact remains, we feel, that in an education-minded community, five persons (the school committee) most assuredly could examine applications and interview candidates for the post, even call upon volunteer assistance from nearby academic institutions to select a new administrator.

Certainly industry would be hard pressed, if administrative replacements required the aid of consultants every time a post had to be filled.

An Oversight?

We would hope that the appearance of only two candidates for public office at a PTA meeting last week, was an oversight on the part of the officers of the organization.

It is our understanding that only two of several candidates seeking office were invited to attend the South School PTA meeting and present their views.

Other candidates have indicated they were not invited.

There was but a single candidate for selectman and one for school committee appearing before the group.

PTA groups are not supposed to be involved in politics and we would hope that the invitation to just two candidates was an oversight on someone's part and not a move in the direction of power politics.

What happened, has happened and probably can not be corrected.

We sincerely hope it was an error on someone's part in an organization which has received several state and national awards.

Elections are too important to narrow the views of persons to single candidates.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN
Your editorial "The Tax Rate" was to the point.

I address this letter to your statement "The Town Manager prepares a budget for presentation to the town meeting. He presents it to the selectmen for their examination. In addition he prepares special articles for presentation to town meeting." Undoubtedly you have stated what has happened during the last five years.

It is not clear whether your statement was merely to state facts or was your understanding of the proper procedure under the town charter.

As a member of the original charter committee and its chairman for the four years preparing the charter and obtaining its adoption, I wish to set the record straight.

The selectmen are the policy forming authority. When the Town Manager prepares a budget it is not his budget. The selectmen are solely responsible for it after their examination and approval. It is the duty of the selectmen to present it to the town meeting and argue for its adoption. It is their budget. It is not the duty of the Town Manager to sell it to the meeting. He should be available to answer questions but the selectmen should do all else.

There is no doubt at all that the Manager is a super salesman. Herein lies our problem. Don't blame the Manager, blame the selectmen. The selectmen, or at least the majority, have abdicated their responsibility.

Howell M. Stillman
15 Juniper Road

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN

The Andover Board of Selectmen and Town Manager must be commended for their unanimous agreement to form the Andover Committee on Urban and Suburban Responsibilities. The continuing growth of this town and its role as a suburban community offer both problems and potentialities. Several Presidential Commissions and other Studies in the past year have pointed to the fact that the solution of the urban problem in this country lies in the suburbs. We feel this is true and thus recognize the value of the Selectmen's decision.

In the next few weeks it is expected that the Committee will be appointed and charged by the Selectmen. To be an effective committee in its concern toward the "human" aspects of town government and planning it must evoke a participatory response from the citizenry. We hope that the people in the town and the Committee realize this and that the channels of communication will be wide as this group studies and evaluates the nature of our "Urban and Suburban Responsibilities".

Pucksters Suffer Two Losses

By Rick Harrison

The roof caved in this past week for the Andover High hockey team as it dropped two close decisions in Merrimack Valley School-boy Hockey League games at the Merrimack Valley Forum in Billerica.

In losing the two tilts, Coach Charles Vars' Golden Warrior sextet dropped from first to third place in the standings with an overall record of 7-3-1. Prior to this Andover had held first place throughout the season.

In the first game, Wilmington hustled to a well-deserved 4-1 win over the Golden Warriors, while two-time defending champion Burlington edged Andover 1-0 in a game with the most stunning and exciting finish in the league's four-year history.

Entering this week's action Burlington was in first place with an 8-1-1 record for 17 points. Wilmington slipped into second place with a 7-1-2 mark for 16 points, while Andover fell to third at 7-3-1 for 15 points.

The Burlington-Andover affair was played before a record high school crowd of 1700 at the Forum, and the action fulfilled the expectations of all in attendance.

The first two periods went by scorelessly as Andover goaltender Ed Rawlings and Burlington netminder Joe Robillard each made a number of classy saves.

The two goalies continued their fine performances into the third period, and it appeared as if the rival clubs were going to have to settle for a scoreless deadlock.

However, with time running out and the puck in the Andover zone, Burlington Tri-Captain Ed Malatesta scrambled to gain possession of the loose disc at the Golden Warrior blue line.

Malatesta moved the puck to the face-off circle at the right of the Andover net, and then drilled a 12-foot shot past Rawlings for the winning score - just as the final buzzer sounded.

Confusion reigned for a few moments as the question was whether or not the goal beat the final horn which sounds automatically at the close of the period. Referee Bob Millett conferred with goal judge Dan Kelley and confirmed that the goal had beat the buzzer by a split second.

The game was one of the finest in the league's history. It began on an unusually fast note as the first 3:26 seconds passed before a whistle was blown. However, the action soon bogged down as 14 penalties were called and the action became rougher.

At the end of the game Robillard had turned back 27 Andover shots to record his first shutout, while Rawlings made 25 saves in the Andover nets. It marked the first time Andover has been blanked this year.

Earlier in the week Wilmington captured its fifth straight game and seventh of the season by topping the Golden Warriors. The Wildcat win avenged an earlier 6-1 beating that Andover had administered.

Wilmington jumped out to a 2-0 first period advantage as sophomore Jim Irwin scored his seventh and eighth goals of the year at 1:07 and 8:02 respectively. Both goals came from close in after some scrambling at the Andover net.

The Golden Warriors cut the gap to 2-1 after two stanzas when Doug Grange rifled his eighth seasonal goal past sophomore Wildcat goalie Dana Tighe at 5:19. Center Chris Mundy and Capt.

Jim Ganley registered assists on the play.

However, Wilmington came back with two third period scores to salt away the victory. Capt. Jack Irwin pushed a 10-footer past Rawlings at 9:46 to make it 3-1, and then sophomore defenseman Mike Esposito shoved a 100-foot strike into an open Andover net with 14 seconds left in the game to conclude the scoring. Esposito (no relation to the Bruins' Phil), is the same young man who destroyed Andover's football opener last Fall by scoring 15 points in a 21-6 Wildcat win.

Wilmington ended with a 26-22 shooting edge on the Golden Warrior six. Rawlings made 22 saves in the losing effort.

Andover has a chance to bounce back this week as they face two of the leagues weaker teams in Billerica (1-7-2) and Chelmsford (2-8-0). The Chelmsford match starts at 2:30 p.m. this Saturday.

Andover's Jan Gottesfeld continues to lead the league in scoring with 20 points. Other Golden Warrior scorers include Mark Hockmeyer and Doug Grange with 16 points apiece, Chris Mundy with 15, Craig Bliss with 13, Jeff Morgan with 10, Jim Ganley and Dave Marson with 8 each, Don Glines and Steve St. Jean with 3 points apiece, Mike Bruno with 2 points and Rick Anderson, Eric Anderson and Jeff Lewis with 1 point.

Ed Rawlings continues to pace the league goalies with a sparkling 1:36 goals against mark and three shutouts. Andover is the highest scoring team with 52 points and a 4.7 per game pace, and they also hold a wide edge in team assists with 65.

CHURCH NURSERY SCHOOL PLANS are discussed by Rev. J. Edison Pike, rector of Christ Church, Mrs. Norman Viehmann, teacher-director and Mrs. Alexander Z. Warren.

Christ Church To Open New Nursery School

Beginning September, 1969, Christ Church will open a new nursery school in Andover, in the recently built parish house of the church.

Teacher-director of the five-day morning school for four-year-olds will be Mrs. Norman Viehmann, 35 Lucerne Dr. Mrs. Viehmann is a graduate of Connecticut College for Women, with a master's degree from the University of Michigan. She is licensed as a pre-school teacher by the state of Massachusetts and has had experience as a teacher of the Free Church Coop Pre-School in Andover.

Applications for the nursery school will not be restricted only to members of Christ Church, but are open to all the community.

The school will stress educational excellence in a framework of Christian community, and will require that 25% of the students admitted be handicapped either economically, socially, or physically.

A committee of Christ Church women, headed by Mrs. A. Z. Warren, has been working since last year with the rector, the Rev. J. Edison Pike, toward parish establishment of a nursery school. ## Music, A-V Budget Cut

"You can't have your cake and eat it too!" was the theme of the budget session of Monday night's school committee meeting.

Chairman Dr. Richard A. Katz led his colleagues in attacking budgets of school department heads who want big increases two years in a row, or want to expand several areas of their program at once.

The board cut approximately $27,000 from the school's expense budget, getting closer to the million they hope to have lopped off the more than $5 million request budget which the administration handed to them in December.

The committee restored $2,500 for music textbooks, once they were convinced the present supply was out-of-date and in short supply. But they sharply cut the sheet music item, which had been increased last year. The theory: if textbooks are necessary this year, sheet music has to wait. Most of the committee viewed the request for $9,000 for new instruments with real alarm, particularly since the music department bought $9,000 of new instruments last year, when only $6,000 was budgeted. Katz called for better planning and a choice of priorities. "All these programs are good, but we can't afford everything at once."

Committeeman William A. Doherty explained that the department felt it needs the new instruments for tonal balance, but the rest of the committee decided that tonal balance could wait, and cut the new instrument budget from $9,000 to $3,000. They also said that while the school could and should provide the large expensive instruments, students could usually be asked to buy the smaller ones like violins (16 bought last year) and piccolos, requested this year.

The audio-visual budget came in for equal criticism. The request budget of $14,700 ($10,500 over last year's appropriation) was cut to $7,700.

$12,500 asked for AV equipment was cut by the schoolmen to less than half, $6,000.

In other cuts, the high school equipment budget of $4,600 was made $1,000, and a $10,000 figure for maintenance of grounds was cut to $3,000. Since the committee favors renovating Central School, a new hot-top will not be put on the play area, but it will be patched. Renovation would include a new play area.

In discussing the overhead projectors asked in school equipment budget requests, the committee suggested that the projectors bought for the new Bancroft School could be shared with other elementary schools.

The ultimate goal of the protection of natural landscapes with their plants and animals is the preservation of mankind, the Massachusetts Audubon Society tells us.

Jessico - Wolfe

Miss Christa Ellen Wolfe, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Yale H. Wolfe (U.S.A., Rtd.) 16 Shaw Drive, became the bride of Lt. Charles Michael Jessico, Jr., United States Navy, of 2703 East Superior Street, Duluth, Minn. on Saturday, Dec. 28 at St. Augustine's Church.

Rev. Joseph F. Gill, O.S.A. officiated at the nuptial Mass. The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore an A-line gown of white silk and wool dupioni. Pearl and brilliant beading banded the mandarin neckline. A back panel was accented at the waist-back with cut flowers of silk terminating at the hemline. Her waist length mantilla of net was edged with Alencon lace and fell from a Camelot headpiece of matching silk trimmed with seeded pearls. She carried a semi-cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Yale H. Wolfe, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, wore a rose pink gown styled with a mandarin neckline, A-line skirt, and back panel. Her headpiece was of rose pink and rose red velvet with a veil of rose pink.

The bridesmaids, identically gowned in rose red, were Mrs. Joseph K. Wolfe, Mrs. Phillip L. Reed, and Miss Mary McCarthy. They all carried cascades of rose, pink and red carnations trimmed with holly.

Yale H. Wolfe III, nephew of the bride, carried the gifts of water and wine to the altar. Kathleen and Krista Wolfe, nieces of the bride, were flower maids. They wore white satin A-line gowns trimmed in rose red velvet and carried baskets of pink and rose red carnations.

Ronald H. Jessico of Chicago, Ill. was his brother's best man, and Yale H. Wolfe, Jr., Joseph K. Wolfe and Phillip G. Wolfe, brothers of the bride, served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Wolfe chose an aqua dress of silk with accessories to match. Mrs. Jessico was attired in a gold silk ensemble and wore a corsage of baby yellow roses. Following a reception at the Andover Inn, the couple, with the bride wearing cadet blue and white, left for a wedding trip to the Virgin Islands.

The bride, a graduate of Merrimack College, is teaching English at Andover East Junior high school. The bridegroom, a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, is presently attending school at the Naval Amphibious Base, Coronado, Calif. prior to his departure for duty in Vietnam in March.

Anticipating A Crowded Town Meeting

Town officials are planning for a large attendance at the annual town meeting March 8.

Town Manager Richard J. Bowen informed the selectmen Monday night that he had asked Town Clerk Irving O. Piper to examine the problem of an overflow crowd and make preparations, for both seating and feeding the residents of the town.

Bowen said that in view of the budget and the special articles to be considered, the town must be prepared to accommodate a crowd similar to that which attended the special session last summer when the Raytheon issue was discussed.

He said that the town must be prepared to meet the problem with "electronic equipment, and whatever may be necessary to accommodate all that wish to attend."

Girl Scout Cookie Sale Underway

Cookies? They surely have them, and in a fine assortment, too. "They", of course, mean the Girl Scouts who are actively taking orders throughout all the area towns this week and next. Junior, Cadette and Senior troops are all involved in this annual sale which helps build their troop treasuries.

Profits to the Council also provide camping and special oppor- tunities for Scouts in the Mer- rimack River Council which can- not be supported by the various United Funds. Last year Shaw- sheen Valley Neighborhood, which consists of Andover and North Andover, was first in the entire Council in raising their sales to the tune of 43%. They sold 21,300 boxes.

If sales increase this year many improvements can be made at the day camp sites and several projects at the resident camp, Camp Runels, in Pelham, N.H. can be completed.

More Land For Sanborn

A planning board's letter to the school committee asking if they were interested in the plot of land adjoining the Sanborn School got prompt action.

The school committee had just last week heard Architect Frank Crimp say that updating and ex- pansion of this elementary school to a 30-room school suitable for modern ungraded programs was very feasible.

The schoolmen are replying that purchase of land adjoining Sanborn for the town is highly advisable.

They followed up consideration of the planning board letter with a unanimous vote requesting the town to purchase land adjoining this school property. The plot the planning board referred to lies partly between the school and Route 93 and partly between the school and the Internal Revenue Service property.

In another unanimous decision they followed the suit of school committees of various other towns in the state in voting to request that the town meeting pass a proposal urging the Legislature to abolish the teacher tenure law. The reasoning of the proposal is that the teacher tenure law is no longer relevant to the present situation where teacher salaries are be- coming competitive with industry.

Charles Donovan, president of the Andover Education Associa- tion, was present at the meeting and did not seem alarmed by the issue. He pointed out that only a vote of the legislature could abolish the teacher tenure law.

Donovan said that the teacher tenure law was not a big issue in Andover, where teacher's rights are protected by a contract which provides grievance procedures to protect the rights of school per- sonnel.

A letter from Fire Chief Henry Hilton informed the School Com- mittee and administration that in- vestigation of the recent Tewks- bury School fire showed that this school's high jump mats contained padding of urethane foam, which is highly flammable. Hilton wrote that the shredded plastic also spatters as it burns.

Superintendent Edward I. Erick- son told the committee members that he had already passed the in- formation on to athletic and Physical Education Director Donald D. Dunn, with instructions to be sure that Andover's mats are not padded with urethane foam.

Eugene F. O'Neill

Named Fellow Of Institute

Eugene F. O'Neill, 83 Bartlett St. has been elected a Fellow of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, the world's largest technical society. The Fellow award certificate will be presented to Mr. O'Neill on March 16 at a banquet to be given by the IEEE's Boston Section.

Mr. O'Neill, who is executive director of the transmission division at the Merrimack Valley Laboratory of Bell Telephone Laboratories, North Andover, was cited for his "contributions and leadership in the engineering, development, and construction of international communication terminals and systems."

The grade of Fellow is the highest membership grade in the IEEE and is attained by invitation only. A mark of unusual distinction, it is conferred only upon persons of outstanding and extraordinary qualifications in their particular fields.

Mr. O'Neill received B.S. and M.S. degrees in electrical engineering from Columbia University in 1940 and 1941, respectively. He joined the technical staff of Bell Laboratories, the research and development unit of the Bell System, in 1941.

His early work was in the development of airborne and ground radar transmitters, overland coaxial cable, radio relay, and submarine cable systems. In 1956, he headed a group responsible for the development of Time Assignment Speech Interpolation (TASI) terminals that can double the capacity of transoceanic telephone cables.

In 1961, Mr. O'Neill became director of Satellite Communications and served as Bell Laboratories' project manager for Project Telstar, the Bell System's experimental satellite communications program, from April of that year until cessation of operations with the satellite in the fall of 1965. Groups under his direction developed the Telstar satellites and the satellite ground terminal at Andover, Maine.

Appointed to his present post in April, 1966, Mr. O'Neill is responsible for a number of transmission developments, including coaxial cable, microwave radio and wire carrier systems.

He is a member of Tau Beta Pi and Sigma Xi honor societies. He was awarded honorary Doctor of Science degrees by Bates College in 1963, and by St. John's University in 1965, and received an honorary Doctor of Engineering from the Politecnico di Milano in Italy in 1964.

Mr. O'Neill and his wife, Kathryn, moved to Andover two years ago from Basking Ridge, N. J. They have two sons and two daughters.

Ash Wednesday Program Planned

"Is it I?", a dramatic presentation about the twelve disciples of Christ, will highlight the Ash Wednesday program when Faith Lutheran Church Women, guests, and friends gather to observe the beginning of Lent. The event, to be held on Wednesday, Feb. 19 at 9:30 a.m. at Faith Lutheran Church, will be followed by a breakfast.

"This is the second year that we of LCW have had an Ash Wednesday program and breakfast," states Mrs. Conrad Eigenmann, president, "and we are inviting all community church women to come and share this observance with us."

The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. Herbert Ottes, Mrs. Arthur Wood, Mrs. Thomas Curtin, Mrs. Winslow Burleigh, Mrs. Ralph Lundberg, Mrs. Ray Bell, and Mrs. William F. Brown.

As seating is limited for the breakfast, reservations must be made in advance and checks mailed to Mrs. Ralph Lundberg, 50 Wild Rose Drive, by Feb. 10.

All interested church women of the Greater Lawrence area are invited to attend both the program and breakfast.

The big change in real estate selling is the development of the Greater Lawrence Multiple Listing Service which is more of an improvement than you find in music. THE WILLIAMS COURT. Special Justice Arthur Williams, left, formally installed as associate justice in Ayer District Court this week, is shown with Judge David B. Williams, presiding justice of the court. Williams was appointed to the post by former Gov. John A. Volpe.

Williams Installed In New Judicial Position

Atty. Arthur Williams, 149 Haverhill St., former legislative secretary to Gov. John A. Volpe, was formally installed as the new special justice of Ayer District Court last week.

Special Justice Williams, appointed by Volpe to the post prior to the governor's assuming a cabinet post in the Nixon administration, joined the court during ceremonies presided over by Judge David B. Williams, presiding justice of the court.

Williams, 53, served Andover and other area communities as a representative for several years prior to resigning to become Volpe's legislative secretary.

During the ceremonies, Williams was greeted by Atty. James Haley, U. S. Commissioner, presently president of the Middlesex Bar Association.

Prior to his resignation in 1967, he had served as a representative since 1956.

He has served as town moderator here since 1965.

A lifelong resident of the Greater Lawrence area, he is a veteran of World War II, and has served as a major in the U. S. Army Reserves, attached to the 331st General hospital, Lawrence.

He is a graduate of Northeastern University and holds a law degree from the same institution. He was admitted to the bar in 1953.

He is married to the former Elizabeth Wilkinson who attended the ceremonies in Ayer.

In accepting the judicial post Williams told the gathering:

"If I were to be charged with being happy to assume the dues of this District Court located in Ayer, I would have to plead guilty, and if I were to be charged with joining with you people here, who are interested in this court, to continue in the conspiracy dedicating ourselves to the end that justice prevails in the Ayer Court, I would also have to plead guilty. It is my desire that when anyone knocks on the door of this court, seeking justice, it will be opened."

Consultant Retained By Board

The school committee has retained the services of Dr. Herold Hunt, Eliot Professor of Education in the graduate school of education of Harvard University, as a consultant in seeking a replacement for Superintendent Edward I. Erickson.

Dr. Hunt was formerly superintendent of schools in Chicago, a past president of American Association of School Administrators, as well as many other educational organizations.

The towns of Sharon, Weston, Melrose, Quincey, Brighton, N.Y., Westbury, L.I., and Winnetka, Ill., have recently used Dr. Hunt's services in finding their new superintendents. The school committee will pay Dr. Hunt $1000 plus expenses, the total not to exceed $1500, for his services.

The former HEW undersecretary and the school committee plan to prepare and distribute a brochure to go to 40 schools of education which he will recommend.

Hunt and the school committee have set a tentative schedule for

Erickson To Retire August 31

Superintendent Edward I. Erickson gave a firm date for his impending retirement to the School Committee on Monday night.

In announcing the date he submitted to the board the following letter:

"Dear Dr. Katz,
"This letter will confirm my recent announcement to you and the members of the Andover School Committee of my intent to retire as Superintendent of Schools. The effective date will be at the end of the day on August 31, 1969.

"It has been a privilege to have served the Andover School System for nineteen years. The growth and development of the schools during this period have been tremendous. I am pleased to have played a part in these changes.

"I wish to pay tribute to those staff members who have labored diligently over the years. Their assistance to furnish the best in educational opportunity for the boys and girls is very much appreciated.

"The role of the School Committee is most important. Often it is a thankless task. It is difficult to measure the time and effort necessary for committee members to discharge their responsibilities. Andover has been fortunate to have had capable persons willing to serve in this capacity. Certainly, the composition of the present committee is an excellent example.

"The people of Andover are to be congratulated for their support of the public schools. Their willingness to provide the financial means for a fine school program and to construct modern buildings for such a program is commendable.

"My decision to retire has not been an easy one especially since I have devoted forty-one years to the profession. I shall certainly miss many fine associations and many wonderful friends.

"My wishes will always be for the best interests of our citizens, young and old.

Work as though you owned the business--and some day you will.
